UNDERGROUND RIVER FOUND AT PLAINVIEW

Strong Stream of Water Is Struck in a Well on the Plains.

Plainview, Texas, Feb. 15.—By accident a matter of great interest and concern in connection with the water situation on the Plains has just been made near here. While drilling a well on E. Dowden's place, five miles west of Plainview, the driller struck a "big boulder" in the 14 inch hole a few feet below the bottom of the dug pit. To get this boulder out of the way it became necessary to put in a heavy dynamite blast. As a result of this blast a large cavity was made in the drilled hole, and as the water cleared within a remarkably short time after the blast, Mr. Dowden decided to make an investigation. With mirrors properly arranged he managed to get an excellent focus on the cavity made by the blast and to his amazement saw that the water was rushing like a rivulet around the shattered boulder, which had been encountered in the second vein of water. For some time there has been much argument and speculation as to whether the great underground water supply here was a flow of an underground lake. The Dowden discovery tends to substantiate the flow theory. This is the first authentic revelation along this line and will be followed by more thorough investigation.

As Mrs. Easter of Estacado, a small town in Crosby county, was going around a street corner a gust of wind caught her and she was thrown to the ground and her right arm and collarbone were broken by the fall.

Mrs. Emma Thatcher died at her home in Plainview of a leaking valve in the heart. A husband and three children survive her. Interment took place at the Plainview cemetery.

A quarter section of land just outside the corporate limits of Plainview to the south, was secured by mayor Jas. R. DeLay for permanent use as the Plainview fair grounds. It will be beautifully landscaped with trees, shrubbery and flowers watered by a new 2,000,000 feet per day well.

He has secured a home at 714 North Stanton street and has moved his family to this city.

Not Sisters
Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry
Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough, stop even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Add 1/2 pint of cold water (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a very long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel the take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for whooping cough, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is placed in gelatin and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this form.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Beatrice Fairfax Asks What Is TRUE Love?

The Chicago Man Who Wants to Know Is Not on a Solitary Quest.

A CHICAGO man wants to know
"What Is True Love?"

This is not a solitary quest. A good many people in Chicago, and in New York, and in Shanghai, would like to know just what is true love.

It is an eternal question, and it will last just as long as the good old world shall last; and then it will take up its endless refrain on some other planet.

Those who have found true love will tell you that it is the best, the only, thing in life; but you will not believe them until you find it out for yourself.

Then you will know that, until that time, you have been a poor, half-fledged thing—existing, not really living.

What True Love Means.
True love is not passion, though passion is a part of true love.

True love lasts long after passion's vivid flame has burned down to a tender glow.

It means companionship, sympathy and an intuitive knowledge of each other's needs.

There is no real love that is absolutely free from jealousy; but in a love that is truly great the jealousy may be controlled.

Would you wish the man or woman who loved you to look with complacency upon another's monopoly of your interest and affections?

If you can do that, then you do not know the first rudiments of true love.

The seeker after knowledge asks, "Can true love ever die?"

True love cannot die; but it can be killed by cruel, ruthless hands; and hundreds of men and women have deliberately, wantonly slain it.

Even then, its memory cannot die. Again the seeker asks, "Do not most marriages come through propinquity?"

Marriage must come through propinquity because propinquity means being near a person, and naturally one does not marry an utter stranger. But propinquity spells danger and it plays many a sorry trick upon unsuspecting young people.

They Mistake Infatuation.
Propinquity tricks young people into mistaking a passing infatuation for real true love.

Through propinquity a man will fall in love with a woman whom he never in the world would have cared for otherwise.

The match maker knows that nothing helps out her scheming as well as throwing two young people constantly together.

Propinquity is an indispensable factor in every match; in some it is almost the entire factor. The marriage of propinquity alone is not apt to last.

In the average woman's eyes the most desperate calamity that can fall to her lot is to remain unwed.

Society's mental attitude toward old maids is that of pitying toleration.

The very children become imbued with this idea and hence the average girl's fear of being an old maid.

In her eagerness to escape this awful fate she marries a man she does not love.

To her true love remains an unknown quantity. Just as many women marry for a home, so do many men marry for a passing infatuation.

In both cases the experiment is a failure.

Marriage is an experiment; only one thing can make it a success, and that is true love.

True love must be founded on respect and congeniality. Without these it will crumble into the bitter ashes of dislike, boredom and disappointment.

M. and Mrs. Chas. E. Hand left Tuesday for New York City.

If the people of Arizona were to have their own way in the matter of organization as a state of the union the result of the vote in the territory on Tuesday would be disastrous.

They would set up business with a fundamental law less stable than the ordinary statutory enactment in other states. Their constitution would be so fluid that it could be changed at any time either by a majority of each house of the legislature or at the instance of one-seventh of the qualified electors by the vote of every county.

The faintest breath of popular emotion or passion or momentary prejudice would be enough to shake the commonwealth to its very foundation.

Indeed, there would be little need of both a fundamental law and a system of statutory law. Everything that is now done by legislation in the old fashioned states could be done in Arizona by the process of constitutional amendment. The legislature might as well be omitted altogether from the scheme.

Taken in connection with the outrageous provision for the recall of the judiciary, that is to say the subordination of every court to the president's decisions of the bench of the mob, this feature of the experiment, were it permitted by the ultimate authority at Washington, would be a beautiful example of new nationalism reduced to absurdity.

Fortunately congress has reserved to itself and to the president the veto of the cheerful aspirations of the populist constitution makers of this territory. The veto power by the president should be exercised firmly and without regard to other consequences than the timely rescue of the future 48th state from a quicksand.

"THE REBEL FLUNK AT JUAREZ."
From Washington (D. C.) Post.

The relief of Juarez affords, perhaps, the most luminous illustration we have had of the flimsy fabric which is being exploited as a revolution. Where Gen. Orozco and his 25000 insurgents, each the match for six federals, when Gen. Rabago marched into the beleaguered town unopposed with but 300 men? What happened that the Mexican revolutionaries, who had captured the city, proclaimed as the capital of Mexico, and the flight of president Diaz, did not come off as advertised? Surely 300 men could not have raised the siege and forced Orozco to retreat to parts unknown had the rebel army any other existence than on paper.

The war correspondents at the front in Chihuahua and at the rear in Washington all last week put an element of doubt upon the capture of Juarez, made it appear to some that the sporadic rising against the "most despotic government on earth" had suddenly crystallized and taken on the aspect of a civil war, but what a change the appearance of 2000 loyal troops made!

Orozco is out of it, but a new leader and a new hotbed of revolt will be discovered in a day or two and heralded by the same revolutionary bureau of information which had had carte blanche on the wires from the day that this class of news apparently is sent out for the exclusive information of the people of the United States. But while we are kept in a state of suspense by reports from day to day that something worth while will be doing on the morrow, the Mexican government and public are going about their business oblivious of the impending crash, or else kept better informed. Doubtless the latter explanation is the correct one, seeing that we had been told that it would take at least 10,000 federals to force their way to Juarez. When will this cruel war be over?

EL PASO'S LATEST SHOW.
From New York Sun.
El Paso is advancing in the realm of sport. Now that the "battles" incident to the Mexican "revolution" have been transferred from the vast foothills of Chihuahua to the brink of the Rio Grande, so the countless thousands can sit upon the Texas shore and view the carnage at comparatively close quarters, the situation has changed. The multitudes that annually resort to El Paso for the races and the bullfights across the river at Juarez have now concentrated their anxiety upon the "battles," which are much more exciting. It remains only to provide a few additional facilities and arrange a few minor details to give El Paso many advantages over Palm Beach or St. Augustine as a winter playground.
